Ozzy Osbourne, The Liar

You ask me the time of day I tell you I don't know In darkness I'm light years away The voices come and go Save me, all my life I've been a liar Burning bridges in the rain The crying embryo I seem so blissfully insane But still the pain won't go Save me, all my life I've been a liar Sacred words the angels wait for me They'll set me free But I can see the joke's on me Babies crying other peoples tears And in their eyes They have reflected wasted years You ask me who I really am I still say I don't know The doors have all been tightly slammed The poison seeds are sown Save me, all my life I've been a liar Dying angels falling from above I've had enough I cannot laugh The joke's on me Shattered dreams you cannot realize Won't sympathize, it's in your eyes Why can't you see? Am I the liar? Tell me who's the liar