

Pancho's Lament, Save

It's a while we've been walking
I can't help but second guess
Like we're stuck here in the middle of some riddle
And I'm unimpressed

There's a dark cloud drawing cross this Valentine sky
And each question I'm asking starts and ends with why
And I can't help but thinking I ain't no passer-by I'm tired, yeah I'm tired, yeah I'm tired of waiting

G-d can say the queen, can save the king
Can save everyone
Oh g-d can you save one thing for me?
Go, save the world, save the girl
Save anyone who'll believe
But save the last laugh for me

For a moment I was reeling
But that feeling didn't last
You can pacify the future
If you just get past the past

Now the silence of the evening sets upon me like dove
And this cast iron sky stares me down from above
And I can't help but thinking that I ain't giving up
No, enough is enough, and I'm tired of waiting

G-d can say the queen, can save the king
Can save everyone
Oh g-d can you save one thing for me?
Go, save the world, save the girl
Save anyone who'll believe
But save the last laugh for me

I've been working a while
All the world's asleep
No, no, no, no
Well, it's just this dream I keep

G-d can say the queen, can save the king
Can save everyone
Oh g-d can you save one thing for me?
Go, save the world, save the girl
Save anyone who'll believe
But save the last laugh for me

G-d say the queen, can save the king
Can save everyone
Oh g-d save the last laugh, the last laugh
The last laugh for me
