

Paul King, One too many heartaches

One too many heartaches, one too many times see it in their faces, read it in the lines one too many heartaches, from the day we're born tears in the beginning, tears after you're gone One too many heartaches baby, stop before it drives us crazy say goodbye but don't say maybe let's finish what we've started stop before it drives us crazy Because love is like the seasons it can turn from hot to cold just try to remember and see through this heartache love is worth trying though there's no denying It's one too many heartaches, why should we pretend after all that we've been through we're strangers once again one too many heartaches, you know I speak the truth what you did what I done we are the living proof One too many heartaches, it all adds up it all adds up to one to two the big surprise two to three it's down to lies three to four you can't go back it all adds up, it all adds up...
