

Paulina Rubio, The Last Goodbye

The streets are big and empty
Ever since you left me
I really hate to say
That nothing's good for me
It seems I haven't seen you lately
The day without you pass me
The hours and minutes blast me
They're the coldest reminder of the bitter hole you left here in my heart

If you've been good to me baby
I'll consider it and maybe
I can still lose my heart and my soul over you
Oh, but never my head
I swore my love was true
Looking through tears in my eyes
But I promise to you this is gonna be finally the last goodbye
The last goodbye

Even if you come to beg me
To forgive you, you won't make me
Even if I see you crying
You'll still probably be lying
Even if it causes me pain
I've already thrown off your chains
And I swear that this ranchera's gonna be the last goodbye

Even if you come to plead
Begging on your hands and knees
Even if I see you crying
You'll still probably be lying
Even if you say that you've changed
I'm still throwin' off your cruel chains
And I swear that this ranchera's gonna be the last goodbye
