

Pete Francis, Julie

i've been dreaming of wearing my red crown strutting all over this town maybe my eyes been telling me lies but mama these diamonds shine so bright

it's a long way from here fear never seemed so clear julie was losing her head on that boy, oh my lucy, she's lucky she was so coy now i'm running incoming like a fireplane i shuffle my muscles through the empty rain days without shadows the sun does not rise a repetition of men and flies blue-lit runway has slipped away unsteady room, light begins to play

i shuffle my muscles through the empty rain
