Peter Green, To Break Your Heart

How many mountains can you climb
How many poems do not rhyme
How many night times in a day
How many miles are you away

Well, Ive got to know now cause it came to me
And you hurt me from the start
Now baby, what does it take to break your heart

How may rivers do not meet
How many rain drops on the street
How many minutes from the hour
Will all the pain you gave to me

Well, Ive got to know now cause it came to me
And you hurt me from the start
Now baby, what does it take to break your heart

Break:

What does it take to break your heart

How many times did I believe you
How many tears can I go
If you can tell me theres an answer
How many nights have you been gone

Well, Ive got to know now cause it came to me
And you hurt me from the start
Now baby, what does it take to break your heart

To break your heart
To break your heart, um
To break your heart
To break your heart, oh
To break your heart
To break your heart, oh
To break your heart
To break your heart, um
To break your heart
To break your heart, oh
To break your heart
To break your heart,
To break your heart
To break your heart,
To break your heart
To break your heart,
To break your heart