

Petula Clark, Two rivers

I was born in a great big city
With a river running by
London (London)
And this is the town that I loved and knew
This is the place where I lived and grew
And dreamed of love
Then, I met someone with a different voice,
Had a different sound, from a different town,
From a different land, and he took my hand
And I followed him, oh yeah
Now, I live in a great big city
With a river running by
Paris (Paris)
And this is the town that I've learned to know
This is the place where my love can grow
And the dream of love has come true
In my heart with every beat,
Two rivers flow, two rivers meet
And love, and love
