

Petula Clark, What would I be

The angry voice is raised in vain
The feeling deep inside of pain
Sometimes, I think it's not worth while
Until once more, I see you smile
What would I be without your love, I'll never know
If I were free, what could I do, where could I go?
I'm only me and I love you so Unspoken thoughts, we both regret,
Forgive the past but can't forget
Sometimes, I just don't understand
Until once more, I hold your hand
Sometimes, it seems I can't go on
Sometimes, it feels that everything we had is gone But though there may be many tears,
We'll stay together through the years
You only have to love me too
And I need no one else but you
