

Pink Cream 69, Spread Your Wings off into a place where every spirit has to go see their lines upon their faces troubled by the flow listen to the distant thunder claiming all the sky now we all should realize no 1 answer, no 1 reason why spread your wings & leave your worries behind light the flame that guides the way through your mind show your will that write the stories untold spread your wings leave the past behind nothing more, you will find once you were a prisoner but now you're free at last blinded by the darkness & the demons of your past feel the magic rise within the deepness of your heart stone for stone you built your fortress now they've come to tear it all apart blinded by the circumstance's shadowing the light reminded by the unforgiven lost upon the flight destiny is long in making some have been so shy

now we all should realize no 1 answer, no 1 reason why

...so leave your worries behind, spread your wings