Plumb, Unforgivable

I'm never told that I am pretty I'm never told that I am kind And my soul burns now with fire Deep inside

I want to become brave and courageous Not buried in self-pity of my own Ashamed and alone From all that's been done to me It's not my fault I remind myself

You say don't be afraid
But I feel afraid
You say don't laugh or cry
But I show emotion
You say food will be on the table
And birds in the sky
But I'm hungry, so hungry
And it's cloudy outside

You never loved me like a daughter You never even loved yourself Now you treat me like a burden Just another object on your shelf

I want you to know now that I love you And this pain that I carry is not my own Ashamed and alone From all that's been done to you It's not your fault I remind myself

Chorus

No matter what I've done Or is done to me Nothing's unforgivable Or unable to be set free

Chorus (to end)
