

Plus/Minus, Ignoring All The Detours

It feels like looking in from the outside and if you squint right, things look like they're alright but oh how wrong we were we never thought it could get worse

And I tried to look ahead I would have followed you anywhere anyway blind to the signs And oh I guess should have known I got caught ignoring all the detours that were holding us back (and forth)

And sometimes you get the instant reply and all the while you miss the real meaning
but oh how wrong we were we never saw it getting worse.