

Po' Girl, So Lazy

i woke up out of bed in the mornin' the sweet sunshine outside is glowin' take me down to the arms of the street i start walkin' to the gentle beat there's a store with organic food for the masses i bought some cold cornbread and molasses there's a man beat boxin' in the street corner cool rhymes for the heat and i'll be so lazy all today...
i'll be so lazy all today...

all the fava beans are climbin' and the cantaloupes are nestled in the shade late nights and dreamy days on a beach washed up by the waves somewhere there's a campfire burnin' songs sung, sweetly yearnin' there's a place where life is good there's a path to your cabin in the woods and i'll be, so lazy all today
i'll be so lazy all today...
i'll be so lazy all today...
i'll be so lazy all today...

i've been lazy for so long all my best friends are gone and all this shit is gettin' old i've been lazy i've been told i've been lazy and i've been lost i've been lonely and not just cuz i'm here all alone and blue i've been lazy enough for 2 i've been lazy without you
