

Poor Old Lu, In Love With The Greenery

Definitely the oldest song on the album, it was originally recorded on our first album (1990), In Love

Written under the guise of God speaking to one person in particular, it was most noted for its intere

You said, &quot;I love the world&quot;
&quot;I love what you've done for me&quot;
you let my grip go
And played the piano keys

Couldn't even see
Boxed in by a fantasy
Scared of real love
You're dead by your destiny

Now shuffling around
Shaking like a tambourine
Confused like the tide
By every star you've seen

You took on the world
It took you by surprise
Like the day you fell
And tears fell from my eyes

Standing so tall
You said, &quot;Yes I'll salute you King&quot;
Lost in a forest
In love with the greenery

Apart from the crowd
Never caught looking around for a scene
Like loneliness you're sinking

I cried of your sin
And every other thing that held you down
Down so far from me

Take diamonds right now
But I promise eternity
