

Pulley, Second Best

I don't care too much about anything anymore
There's no difference between wrong and right
I'm tired of livin' life out of spite

I don't care too much about anything anymore
I've been here for too long
It's a change I can't go through
You're better off without me, aren't you
Aren't you?

I have lost my faith in finding humanity
For every girl that ever broke my heart,
For every fucked up friend that played that part

I have lost my faith in finding humanity
Compassion, this and that
For all that I've been through
You're better off without me, aren't you
Aren't you?

I've been here for too long
It's a change I can't go through
You're better off without me, aren't you
Aren't you?
