

Punchline, Steve's Dvd Acoustic Song (Untitled)

Meeting and winning and losing and loving
And praying to God that I come back to something
You're gone, you're gone
And I know how the story goes
I've been here before
I knew goodbye when I walked out the door
Goodbye, I'm gone.

So where does this leave me
When I have to leave you
On the road ahead there's a new life
Instead the one I was just getting used to
Landscapes and signs
And a few pictures to remind me
I was wrongfully right.

Thanks for the smile and wild nights
While we laughed at the clock
And didn't care about anything
Lets just live
But that clock didn't stop
It was running just fine
And ironically I was so lost in time tonight
Lets just live

So where does this leave me
When I have to leave you
On the road ahead there's a new life
Instead the one I was just getting used to
Landscapes and signs
And a few pictures to remind me
I was wrongfully right.

He'll say clich's that I used to use on you
But I was always clever
I'd love you forever
And you know that now
And you wonder how I left
But I haven't even left yet.

So where does this leave me
When I have to leave you
On the road ahead there's a new life
Instead the one I was just getting used to
Landscapes and signs
And a few pictures to remind me
I was wrongfully right.
