

Rabbit Junk, Inside My House everything inside my house is broke the stove don't work my window is cracked it's all fked up a hall of broken mirrors path of broken glass everything inside my house is black it's a cold hard fact that life moves so fast without taking another breath you get caught in the past i remember the boy i used to be taking life on so innocently it's cold hard fact

it's of little relief that others hold your belief with so much standing against us all you're got to be the thief everything inside my house sweats all night i wake up every morning and taste the salt sunlight streaming in through the nicotine i bathe in the smoke of the unseen
