

Rage, The Inner Search

You've got a right to take what life offers you don't let others mark out your scope You better break out from all what chained you up there is more to be than they said

The inner search needs more than words
Just hear the call for the inner search
You can hear a lot, but to understand let the confusing voices die first blow the flickering light out that's in your head see the one that's always been there

The inner search needs more than words
Just hear the call for the inner search

That you are is yours, belongs just to you to noone else, to no man, to no god
Keep your own truth in yourself as the only light and be your own hope and a fear cannot get ya, get ya...

No point in revealing your fate for what you hate be true to yourself, it's your responsibility

No point in believing that gods can help you out it's your inner voice leading you to the right choice

Get up for a sense, take your life in your own hands hear your inner voice leading you to the right choice
That you are is yours, belongs just to you
to noone else, to no man, to no god
Keep your own truth in yourself as the only light
and be your own hope and a fear cannot get ya, get ya...

The inner search needs more than words
Just hear the call for the inner search