

Random Ruins Of Reality, Right Time

I've always waited for the right chance I've always tried to be on the right side but I have always missed the right time
the right time

I've always strived to pull the right lace I've always had to catch the right sign
but I have always missed the right time
the right time

all in my life has been a failure (it was devoted to a fake god) none of my dreams ever come true (a useless wait for the U-turn) there's little choice in what I have done (I run along a manmade path) but the right time is yet to come I've always suffered to show the right face I've always failed to have the right mind
but I have always missed the right time
the right time
