

Random Thoughts, This Will Pass In Time

As the rain falls down and the storm is getting worse
Its hard to picture how there's clear sky above the clouds
But as the fog presses in close and I can't see past my hands
I'll try to keep in mind that its only for a short time

Everybody sings about the rain
And being saturated by the sky dark hue of grey
And we parted in a similar state
But don't think I have much longer to wait

You know that this will pass in time
Like clouds that break and fade from the sky
So hold on and we'll weather this storm as one
Making up in the raining, and waking up with the sun

But as the fog presses in close and I can't see past my hands
I'll keep you in my mind to get me through this hard time
