Ray Price, Pride

You know that you're doing lots of things that ain't right You're out with a different party almost every night And you're making me look like a crazy fool So why do I have these doubts about leaving you Because my heart tells me stay but my pride tells me go But how can I leave you when I love you so Which way should I turn I'd sure like to know My heart tells me stay but my pride tells me go [steel - fiddle] I'd be so much better off to drive you from my mind And make you the mem'ries that I'd like to leave behind I know that these heartaches are what you will put me through So why do I have these doubts about leaving you Because my heart tells me stay...
