

Razorlight, You and the rest

You say you're thinking of me and you'll do it at any cost you say that you believe in life and in love you've never lost Everything keeps changing on me I can't tell you how I feel people shift and rearrange on me how should I know what is real?
It has been shown you can get broken bones and it has been proved that there is much to lose when we try to live as one You ask me where I've been and to you I just can't lie there were only ever two women here you and the rest that passed me by and yes I'm thinking of you can't switch you off at any cost while I figure out these rules of love and pretend I've never lost But I lost from the start I was kicked back hard intake and backdraft blew then flames consumed where we try to live as one I'm not making plans for tomorrow I'm just figuring it out You can beg it steal or borrow Or count me out I see the moment disappearing and this joke is getting thin I see my enemy appearing and I'm him
Can we try to live as one?
when you get back. . .