Reamonn, Aeroplane

I saw your name in a telephone book As someone unlisted someone unknown I guess you want to disappear To another world Where you're left on your own

And I know we could close our eyes And fool ourselves With nowhere left to hide I thought that giving up Would be easier But it's harder not to try

Cause in your heart is a hurt that's growing You're like a window to my world Where no begin is where you are

I love you like an aeroplane That's taking me home again I'm standing here in line Cause some love just takes time

I love you like an aeroplane That's taking me home again If you're searching for the truth It's in the feelings I have for you It's in the feelings I have for you

They say
Some things are forever and
Some things they only last a day
It it's not getting better
If it's difficult
Doesn't mean you turn away

I know you live your life
Like a melody
A song that wants to grow
I thought that giving up
Would be easier
But it's harder letting go
Cause in your heart is a hurt that's growing
You're like a window to my world
Where to begin is where you are

I love you like an aeroplane That's taking me home again I'm standing here in line Cause some love just takes time

I love you like an aeroplane That's taking me home again If you're searching for the truth It's in the feelings I have for you

I saw your name in a telephone book As someone unlisted someone unknown I guess you want to disappear To another world Where you're left on your own

And I know we could close our eyes And tell yourself That's there's not much we can do But I'm not giving up I'm not giving up On these feelings I have for you Yeah these feelings I have for you These feelings I have for you These feelings I have for you These feelings I have for you
