

Rebeca Lavelle, In his eyes

He, he don't belong anymore
And he, he has no place anymore
It's dark and cold
So dark and cold
And he, he don't belong anymore
Nothing in his heart
Nothing in his soul
Nothing in his eyes,
Empty and cold
Nothing left to stand for
No one left to hold
Nothing in his hands anymore
He don't belong anymore
He don't understand anymore
And he, he can't believe anymore
The truth, the lies
The pain when he tries
He can't understand anymore
Nothing in his heart
Nothing in his soul
Nothing in his eyes
Empty and cold
Nothing left to stand for
No one left to hold
Nothing in his hands anymore
He don't belong anymore
No father, no son
No future, no past
No place on this land
No lover, no wife
No reason to fight
No reason to stand
Nothing in his heart
Nothing in his soul
Nothing in his eyes
Empty and cold
Nothing left to stand for
No one left to hold
Nothing in his hands anymore
He don't belong anymore