

Rebecca Ferguson, Superwoman

I'm not wearing a cape, these are just regular clothes
And I'm praying to God, come on lessen this moan
Smiling through the bad times, but it's all just for show
Saving my tears for when I'm alone

And I lose my mind every now and then
I break down big then I start again

Never, never said I'm a superwoman
Never said, I never said it!
Never ever said I was more than coping
Never did, I never did!
Maybe I'm mad, maybe I'm all cried out
Maybe I'm scared, but I'm coming around
No, I never, never said I'm a superwoman

Dropping the mask, uncovering my soul
Loving my scars, letting go out of control
Seeing beauty through the ashes everywhere I go
One minute I'm strong, the next - I don't know

And I lose my mind every now and then
I break down big then I start again

Never, never said I'm a superwoman
Never said, I never said it!
Never ever said I was more than coping
Never did, I never did!
Maybe I'm mad, maybe I'm all cried out
Maybe I'm scared, but I'm coming around
No, I never, never said I'm more than human

And I wish I could fly
Take me away
Take me away
Just fly
Up and escape sometimes
I wish I was strong
Stronger than this aching
It's breaking me down

And I never ever said I'm a superwoman
I never said, I never said it!
Never ever said I was more than coping
I never did, I never did!
And maybe I'm mad, I'm all cried out
And maybe I get scared, but I'll be coming around and around
Around and around, around and around
All cried out
And no I never ever said, oh
Coming around
No, no, I never ever said I'm a superwoman
I'm not superwoman
