

Rebecca Lynn Howard, Didn't Look Like Alchol

Didn't look like alchol to me But his hands were shaking like a willow leaf reaching out for one more drink didnt look like a loser to me but he was lost behind his tears Something bad had to drive him in here he dont fit in with this crowd Somewhere sometime he was proud

Chorus

Theres a storm stretched out a million miles across his heart and a war he's fighting in the dark whatever it is something bigger than him brought him too far down to crawl but it didn't look like alcohol Thought i heard him say somebody's name but i pretended like i didn't hear i just wished that i could disappear he was cracking like a desert of burning shame pleading with someone i couldn't see might as well of been on his knees like a rocket ready to burn he got up in a hurry to go

Repeat Chorus

The girl behind the bar says she guesses he forgot her i said dont worry i'll get his tab and give me two of whatever he had and she said :"water?"; Oh whatever it is something bigger than him brought him too far down to crawl
but it didn't look like alcohol
oooohhh Didn't look like alcohol to me oooohhh yeah
