Remedy, Let It Go

(Anderson/Cocks)
Black bomber jackets with gang colors
Showing on my back
The boys they're out tonight walking
Prowlin' in a pack

The girls are hangin' loose
In a path not far away
The teams they pick are evenly matched
For the game they're about to play

Who knows who cares
Are you game or are you scared
To take a chance and let it go
Take a chance, let it go
Let it go, let it go

Colored light flashed, silver ball crashed
A face was full of pain
Dancin' on the toes for an unseen foe
For the chance to play again

She tried so hard not to lose her innocence
In the back seat of a car
But he's too drunk to be gentle
And she's too drunk to care

Who knows who cares
Are you game or are you scared
To take a chance and let it go
Take one chance, let it go

And the kids still cruise the summer nights
Gettin' their kicks is their youthful right
Chicks so young lookin' better all the time

Teaching smooth talkin' boys to sing in rhyme

Do you get what I said, hey boys
Try...to keep time

Goin' up and out in the summer
Educated at a government school
Leaving home just as soon as he can
Hangin' out, gettin' seen, gettin' cool

There ain't no jobs for money
So he's learnin' how to steal
The bright beam lights in the city
Make things seem strangely unreal

Who knows who cares
Are you game or are you scared
To take a chance and let it go
Take a chance, let it go

And the kids still cruise the summer nights
Gettin' their kicks is their youthful right
Chicks so young lookin' better all the time
Teaching smooth talkin' boys to sing in rhyme
Sing in rhyme

Who knows who cares

Are you game or are you scared
To take a chance and let it go
Take a chance, let it go
Let it go, let it go
Let it go, you got to let it go
Let it go
