Richard Hell, Oh

So this is where it's got to after so many tries all the nights and crimes I spent and I fought to bent and I fraught to commit, and the highs then I step outside and Oh, the sun is breaking through the clouds The sky is like the face of God And all there is to say is

The day's not been all that bad I did this and that but somehow I feel restless and sad messed up and had face pressed to the mat but I step outside and Oh, the sun is breaking through the clouds The sky is like the face of God And all there is to say is

So we'Il lie down in flowers before we die and stare up into all those raining towers of ancient powers inscribing the sky inside our eyes and Oh, the sun is breaking through the clouds The sky is like the face of God And all there is to say is
