Ricky Skaggs, Window Up Above

I've been living a new way, All the life that I love so. But I can see the clouds are gathering, And the storm will wreck our home.

For last night he held you tightly, And you didn't even shove. This is true for I was watching, From the window up above.

You must have thought that I was sleeping, And I wish that I had been. But it's best to get to know you, And the way your heart can sin.

I thought we belonged together, And our hearts fit like a glove. I was wrong for I've been watching, From the window up above.

From my eyes, a teardrop started, As I listened on and on. I heard you whisper to him, softly, And our marriage was all wrong.

Well, I hope he makes you happy, And you'll never lose his love. I lost mine while I was watching, From the window above.

How I wish I could be dreamin', And wake up to a love that's true. I lost mine while I was watching, From the window up above...
