

Ringo Starr, Trippin' On My Own Tears

"If you can laugh, you know, what's the problem?"

We were once upon a time
then your love disappeared
you cant help crying
when you love something so dear theres a mile of heartache that I had to cross face down, longing for the love I lost
I cant help wonderin
how I ended up here.

So I cried so hard
I was trippin on my own tears.

What was so confusing
is now becoming so clear
she tried to tell me what I never wanted to hear it dont matter if the sun does shine its always clouded know that youre not mine for one foolish moment wont you forgive me dear.

So I cried so hard
I was trippin on my own tears.

Why you cant that Im dying?
Im not a saint, but god Im trying, trying.

It dont matter
if youre wrong or wright
when youre walking the floor and youre up all the night
Ill wait for you if it takes a million years.

Well I cried so hard
I was trippin on my own tears
(He cried so hard he was trippin on his own tears)
Well I cried so hard
I was trippin on my own tears
(Cried so hard I was trippin on my own tears)
On my own tears (Cried so hard)
On my own tears
On my own tears

Everybody!
(Cried so hard)

On my own tears.

"Great tambourine."
"Yeah, I was trippin. Trip, trip, trippin on my own tears, you know. Trippin up, trippin there, tr
