

Ringo Starr, What Love Wants To Be

What love wants to be is a song that lasts forever the perfect melody when two hearts sing together the moon can't shine, without the sun on my own I'm only one now I have a reason to believe
what love wants to be
you are that to me.

What love wants to be
is deeper than an ocean green eyes like the sea reflecting true devotion when the night is still, the stars that shine say yet again that you are mine no need to keep on searching endlessly
what love wants to be
you are that to me.

After the band is gone we will keep dancing on like every night, is Saturday night.

What love wants to be
we've heard it through the ages but no one ever told me that is free
what love wants to be
you are that to me
what love wants to be.

You are that to me.