

Robben Ford, My Everything

I love you endlessly
Like I love the moon and the rain
Shining on my pillow
Quenching the thirst inside of me
We've been drawn so close together
And you've taught my heart how to sing

Love is a mystery
It will break all the rules
One day you've got the world in your pocket
And the next you're somebody's fool
Standing on the edge of a promise
You might feel uncertainty
But I could give you my everything

Bliss runnin' through my veins
When I touch your hand
And that's enough for me

I don't need to think it out
There's no place that I'd rather be
