

Roger Creager, Feel Again

Roger Creager

Lay your head down tonight and dream of the love we had Close your eyes so you won't see the man you love not hold you tight
A flame that once burned up the night, now we search for the spark
And it feels so strange not holding onto you, when we love here in the dark

Chorus:

If you feel that I don't love you, feel my kisses soft upon your skin
If you feel that love has lost you, open up your arms and let me in
If you feel your heart is dying and it's crying trying to give in
If you feel that I don't love you...feel again

I get caught up in my days, and forget about the nights
I never hear your silent cries, I just turn out the lights
But I remember when together was all we wanted to be
So as you lie across the bed tonight, darling turn and look at me

Chorus

If you feel that I don't love you...won't you feel my love again