

Ron Sexsmith, Right About Now

When the world is wearing me down
And the wind is throwing its weight around
So cold, it blows right through me

I need your love
I sure could use your love
Right about now

They say every soul needs searching
But I just don't know where to begin
Give me something to go on

I need your love
I sure could use your love
Right about now

Now that it's late and I see things so clearly
Must be something I can do
I feel like calling but it's much too early for you

So I'm up here writing this song
But tonight the words have come out wrong
Think I'll just let my heart speak

I sure could use your love
Right about now

I need your love
Wish I could feel your love
