

Ron Sexsmith, Riverbed

Riverbed

I'll lay my head upon your pillow
And watch the waves go flowing by

Riverbed

Underneath the weeping willow

I'll sleep until the sunlight fills the sky

Never said

I would be your superhero

I never said that I was strong

Riverbed

I'll lay my head upon your pillow

If you'd just let this night go on and on

Cos everything I felt before

Don't make much sense to me anymore

And everything I'm feeling now

I can only dream about

Riverbed

I'll lay my head upon your pillow

And watch the waves go flowing by

Riverbed

Underneath the weeping willow

I'll sleep until the sunlight fills the sky

River runs so cold and clear

You'd think it must be heaven's mirror

And like the leaves I'm on the ground

"Old Jack" is back in town

Riverbed

I'll lay my head upon your pillow

And watch the waves go flowing by

Riverbed

Underneath the weeping willow

I'll sleep until the sunlight fills the sky

I'll sleep until the sunlight fills the sky
