

Roy Drusky, All Over My Mind

You're still all over my mind
I keep hopin' in another I'll find you again
That's why there been so many lips where your lips have been
But the mem'ries of the past put my future behind cause you're still all over my mind
You're still all over my mind
If absence makes the heart grow fonder then why it's killin' mine
From a bottom up I climb everything I find but you're still all over my mind [ steel ]
You're still all over my mind
If only all my dreams of you could be denied
Then maybe with a new love I'd be satisfied
Odds and ends of yesterday are all I can find and you're still all over my mind
You're still all over my mind...
