

Roy Drusky, Worst Is Yet To Come

I know the worst is yet to come
Such a little time has passed since you went away
Where are all the heartaches coming from
I can hardly stand the pain of missing you today and I know the worst is yet to come
If there was something I could find to drive these tears from me
Then I'd go right out and get me one
I've already cried enough to fill the big blue sea and I know the worst is yet to come [ steel ]
There'll be all those sleepless nights when I'll just lay and cry
And the hours will seem to have no end
There'll be days when it won't matter if I live or die
Wishing I could have you back again
If there was something...