

Royworld, Brakes

RAKES.

When I was a boy, I saw the light, sold it to you.
and all, I wanted to say, I wish you were here, I wish you would rain down.
I'm hearing alarms, ring in my ears, I'm calling the sound out.
The one thing I know I couldn't recall, 'till I heard you say.

Put on your brakes.
Lord, if I could just get through today.
Put on your brakes.
Sorry but I just can't walk away.

Yeah,
This is your life.
Don't you cry,
'cause it's alright.
As we dance,
For the last time.

Sat on the road, watching the cars, sink in the resevoirs I know.
It's just like you said, when all of the world is spinning inside your head, and out, if I could run, the miracle mile, I'd run as if the city's burning down.
The one thing I know I couldn't recall, 'till I heard you say.

Put on your brakes.
Lord, if I could just get through today.
Put on your brakes.
Sorry but I just can't walk away.

Yeah,
This is your life.
Don't you cry,
'cause it's alright.
As we dance,
For the last time.
Yeah,
Come on, come on singing.
Yeah,
This is your life.
Don't you cry,
'cause it's alright.
As we dance,
For the last time.
Yeah,
Y'know, y'know yeah.
Yeah,
This is your life.
Don't you cry,
'cause it's alright.
As we dance,
For the last time.
(Fade out)
