Rufus Wainwright, Califoria

California, California
You're such a wonder that I think I'll stay in bed
Big time rollers, part time models
So much to plunder
That I think I'll sleep instead
I don't know this sea of neon
Thousands suffer whiffs of freon
And big nights back east with Rhoda
California please

There's a moment I've been saving

A kind of crucifix around this munchkin land

Up north freezing, little me drooling That's Entertainment's on at eight

Come on Ginger slam

I don't know this sea of neon

Thousands suffer, whiffs of freon And my new grandma Bea Arthur

Come on over

Ain't it a shame that at the top

Peanut butter and jam they serve you

Ain't it a shame that at the top

Still those soft skin boys can bruise you

Yes I fell for a streaker

I don't know this sea of neon

Thousand suffer whiffs of freon

Ain't it a shame

That all the world can't enjoy your mad traditions

Ain't it a shame that all the world

Don't got keys to their own ignitions

Life is the longest death in California

California

You're such a wonder that I think I'll stay in bed So much to plunder that I think I'll sleep instead You're such a wonder that I think I'll stay in bed So much to plunder that I think I'll sleep instead