Running Wild, The Poison

[Rolf Kasparek]

Poisoned snakes with doubled tongues, pretend to know the law They menace with eternal hell, the fiend on velvet paws They say what you should do or not, to keep you just in line Praying they will fool the blind 'till the end of time

Fight the fire, the licking flame of hate Fight the liar, the snake in the shade

He spites his wicked lies, the poison He slithers round his victim 'till he bites He injects the fuel of hate, the poison And the fallen angel spreads his blackened wings

They pray the wine, they serve the lie, that's dripping in your ears They daze your mind, they need your soul to oil their evil gear A mindless and obedient slave to the lord of flies Their hearts are wrapped in blackest night, cashing in on lies

Fight the fire, the licking flame of hate Fight the liar, the snake in the shade

He spites his wicked lies, the poison He slithers round his victim 'till he bites He injects the fuel of hate, the poison And the fallen angel spreads his blackened wings

The evilness lives in their heart, Lucifer's the name They bet your life, your soul's the prize, the pool in the game They say they saw the god of light, but they will never proof I know their god, they're praying to, two horns and a cloven hoof

Fight the fire, the licking flame of hate Fight the liar, the snake in the shade

He spites his wicked lies, the poison He slithers round his victim 'till he bites He injects the fuel of hate, the poison And the fallen angel spreads his blackened wings