

Ryan Adams, Go Easy

I watch the evening grow old
And I watch the sun grow tired
Collapsing into the meadowlands

Funny how I still hear that voice
Sometimes it's like it's so loud
I only hear a ringing sound

If only to say this to you now,
I love you still
And I always will
If only to say this to myself,
I will always love you
I will always love you
So go easy on yourself

Go easy
Go easy

You were like those flowers on the hills and
The sunlight in the fall even the coyotes call
Funny how my mind counts each day
By the times I've thought of you
Funny how the numbers sway

If only to say this to you now
I love you still
And I always will

If only to say this to myself
I will always love you
I will always love you
So go easy on yourself

Go easy
Go easy
Go easy
Go easy

But go

(You gotta go, you gotta go now
You gotta go, you gotta go now)
