

Ryan Shupe & The RubberBand, Last Man Standing

He's got a need for speed You better believe
He was born to achieve
A spot at the top
He'll Never Stop
He's got a single eyed vision like a Cyclops He's gonna set the new world record Don't underestimate him yet cause he will get the first place prize leave you behind like a supersonic jet

he'll be the last man standing
he'll be number one
the first one to finish
when the race is won
he won't melt under pressure
or be outrun

there's a light within that burns and yearns and it begins and it starts stirring up a revolution, an evolution it's time to start searching now for a new solution and ignite the light, like he was born to fight cause he's set his sight bright like the sun let the noon day come nobody can deny it he'll be number one

Stop
Go

the predisposition to lose is a condition, it's a failure to prove a premonition waiting to come true it's like shooting at a target with no ammunition you knew you were through when the superstition came true out of commission, tell you what you do put on your running shoe don't give up the pole position
