

SaGoh Twentyfourseven, Atlantis Reaching Affinity

Staring at the ocean,
I swear I'm in your eyes.
Swimming in the shallow
On this warm September night.
And I know this much is true,
As my feet have touched this sand,
There is no place I would rather be
Than right here in your hands.

Figured it in,
This is what I want out of life.
Because there is magic in this moment
Underneath this blanket called tonight.

I want to run away with you.
Let's make the rest of our lives our honeymoon.
I want to run away and leave loneliness behind;
We can make it together this time.
I want to run away with you.

I wish I could describe
The empty sleepless nights
Waiting for the woman
With whom to spend my life.
And with those silent prayers
Often whispered under breath
And my deepest passions finally confess.
Now I see your face
Every time I close my eyes.
Your beauty far outweighs the flowers
And your laughter I memorize.
I want to run away with you.

I want to run away with you.
Let's make the rest of our lives our honeymoon.
I want to run away and leave loneliness behind.
We can make it together this time.
I want to run away with you.