

Salamandra, Imperatus

Slave I became against my will faith I lost in God
et imperatus
life I save with bloody shield fight I have to hard
et Santiagus

Squall of the merciless crowd calls for my fall,
greet the emperor
thumb down is shown only once I must save my bare life evoke the terror

I will fight till I die
and I never look back
unable to worry
and unable to care

My name
is carved in a colosseum I'm a Persian, et imperatus the one who waits for the signal Who cares about
if I live or die?
I am a gladiator
the one who fears of the signal

Slave I became against my will
faith I lost in God
et imperatus
life I save with bloody shield
fight I have to hard
et Santiagus

I will fight till I die
and I never look back
unable to worry
and unable to care

My name
is carved in a colosseum
I'm a Persian, et imperatus
the one who waits for the signal
Who cares about
if I live or die?
I am a gladiator
the one who fears of the signal

I will fight till I die
and I never look back
unable to worry
and unable to care

My name
is carved in a colosseum
I'm a Persian, et imperatus
the one who waits for the signal Who cares about
if I live or die?
I am a gladiator
the one who fears of the signal

Choir

Faith I lost in God
I save my own life
I will die in fight
I try too hard

My name
is carved in a colosseum
I'm a Persian, et imperatus
the one who waits for the signal Who cares about
if I live or die?
I am a gladiator
the one who fears of the signal