

Sam Brown, Where You Are

She never wonders why
The people stop and stare
Ambling through her empty life
Without a care for ordinary faces
But you don't have to stay out there
All alone

You keep on losing yourself
In another world you're
Anchored to dreams of island
Life and the stars but you
Don't know where you are
Where you are nobody knows
Where you are
There's no-one at home

I see those vacant eyes
They stare into space
Caught up in cloudy skies
Don't you often wonder when or
Where you're going
But you don't have to stay out there
All alone

You keep on losing yourself
In another world you're
Anchored to dreams of island
Life and the stars but you
Don't know where you are
Where you are nobody knows
Where you are
There's no-one at home