

Sam Fender, That Sound

Serotonin stole the moment
The best of me was left under the bed sheets on that somber morning Dying for some REM
My mind has always struggled with where have I been and where am I going when my head comes crashing down they were waiting at the bottom trying to claw me down beneath it all every night I play that sound it's greatest revelation

it's the only thing that keeps me grounded
I need to hear that sound I need to hear that loaded vampires burning me up drop names and sniff up residue while boasting about their revenue at home I face these green eyed beasts everybody wants to leave but no one wants to see you do it

when my head comes crashing down
they were waiting at the bottom trying to claw me down beneath it all
every night I play that sound
it's greatest revelation
it's the only thing that keeps me grounded
I need to hear that sound
I need to hear that
