

Sam Phillips, Hole In Time the first time he saw her was through a telescope a misfit cactus filled with bottled hope he answered like a sick man getting out of bed suspicion and thirst curiosity and dread

the blindness in control freeze the fatal bullet as we're falling through a hole in time one night he came home and found the house burning through the frozen smoke he saw the earth turning a curtain of silence fell on deaf ears a dream from the past was echoing through the years

the blindness in control
freeze the fatal bullet
as we're falling through a hole in time