

Saosin, I Can Tell

Betray

The Avalon is always beside me

And I'm following it home

Where is my home

Orion glows

And his eyes open up

I once believed that I would set you in line

If only I had the strength you'd be completely accepting something else

If you keep asking me I'll melt away in the summer air

It won't hurt half as much and I'll beg for you to stop it now

If you keep asking me I'll melt away in the summer air

It won't hurt half as much and I'll beg for you just tell me something

The fluid through the alpha waves and power cables everywhere

Exercising self-control

The child calls

And he lies open

I would believe if only I'd been thinking at all

If only I had the strength you'd be completely accepting something else

If you keep asking me I'll melt away in the summer air

It won't hurt half as much and I'll beg for you to stop it now

If you keep asking me I'll melt away in the summer air

It won't hurt half as much and I'll beg for you just tell me something

If you keep asking me (keep asking me) keep asking me

If only I had the strength you'd be completely accepting something else

If you keep asking me I'll melt away in the summer air

It won't hurt half as much and I'll beg for you to stop it now

If you keep asking me I'll melt away in the summer air

It won't hurt half as much and I'll beg for you just tell me something

You swore

Out like my life

You cried

So I'm engaged to smile