

Saosin, Lost Symphonies (Live)

To install the notion that I divided by I replace the occasion to speak cause I'm not the only lonely boy...

Until I decide to take my watch off, I'll still believe that we
we're just a matter of time, still getting older everyday (shout for shout sake)

Siren siren, don't do this dance in my ear,
At this point I've already lost him once
I do a deadly dance and all I've asked for so little I've already lost him (once)

If I decided to sever the plates below the shore would separate and have only seven plates again.

Until I decide to take my watch off, I'll still believe that we
we're just a matter of time, still getting older everyday (shout for shout sake)

Siren siren, don't do this dance in my ear,
At this point I've already lost him once
I do a deadly dance and all I've asked for so little
In fact I've already lost him

Before commemorating ten feet tall and I still have the right to say I hope you still believe
