

Sarah Blasko, Will You Ever Know

The time has come to turn and run when there seems theres no room to fall
And whats the point of kneeling down, just to hit the ground and crawl?
Too many tears to try and swim when alone against the floor
Too many thoughts to think too hard when theres no absolutes anymore

cos you fly us in the deepest paths
And faith deserves an open heart

Will you ever know
You ever know
You ever know
What this world could be
Is not just illusive fantasy

Will you ever know
You ever know
You ever know
What this world would mean
If you knew your place in history

The time has come to make the change: either seek the truth or run Ooh the truth is this ignorance is bliss when your inanity is like a gun

cos you fly us in the deepest paths
Not nestled in your cheap remarks
cos you fly us in the deepest paths

Will you ever know
You ever know
You ever know
Why this world would be
Is not just illusive fantasy

Will you ever know
You ever know
You ever know (you ever know, you ever know, you ever , you ever know)
What this world would mean (you ever know, you ever know, you ever)
If you knew your place in history (you ever know, you ever know, you ever)
Will you ever know
You ever know
You ever know (you ever know, you ever know, you ever)
What this world would mean (you ever know, you ever know, you ever)
If you knew your place in history (you ever know, you ever know, you ever)...