

Saves The Day, Rise

Lets call it off ive had enough of the games if you could see into me all my veins are tangled up tied in knots

My heart beats slowly now, it's emptying into the streets Swirling straight away down the drains back to sea

Oh when is the time where you arent in my mind setting flames ravaging all my dreams when can i finally wake

To the sunlight shining on my cheeks and the wind sweeping me away far away from every memory with you face in the frame that'll be the day

When they sky starts burning, the earth aint moving.
We all become sane
and we rise in the morning to kiss the scorching sun before it falls. ohhh [3x]